Description

Living in a trullo is a unique experience - little rooms with a domed ceiling; conical roofs built out of blocks of white calcareous stone, crowned by curious pinnacles of all different shapes; metre-thick walls, either white or in warm colours, which keep the inside cool during the heat of summer, but warm in winter; recesses in the walls used for shelving and cupboard space; set in pleasant age-old welcoming countryside, with an assortment of seasonal fragrances. Trullo Salamina is a charming typical three-coned trullo, set in lush countryside amid age-old olive groves and Mediterranean maquis vegetation, with an outstanding panoramic view over the sea, just 7 km from the long sandy beaches that mark the bottom of the Adriatic coast, 7 km from Cisternino and 15 km from Ostuni, the two of the most enchanting towns in the Itria Valley.

Trullo Salamina can give you the best of both worlds, combining a peaceful relaxing holiday in the country and at the beach with trips to some of the most interesting places in the area - Bari, Castel del Monte, Trani, Alberobello, Lecce, and Otranto, not to mention the delightful cities in the Itria Valley in the immediate vicinity.

The trullo is built on the side of a hill, and from the panoramic terrace, you can enjoy some of the most unforgettable sunsets of your life - we are sure that that will be one of your favourite memories of Italy.

Accommodation details:

Trullo al Monte is in fact an ancient complex of trulli, which has been completely refurbished in traditional style, perfectly suited to the needs of the modern world.

It features: a living room, with table and chairs, recesses and shelving, a twin sofa bed and a clothes hook on the wall. From the living room, you get to the double bedroom through a delightful little doorway, built into the wall, with recesses in the walls acting as bedside tables and wardrobe and a wooden chest of drawers. A characteristic archway leads from the living room to a small kitchen equipped with everything you will need.

There is a bathroom with running hot water and shower.

On the outside, five steps lead up to a panoramic terrace with a table, sunshades and sun loungers.

Next to the trullo is a so-called "lamia", a typical stone construction with a "tortoiseshell" roof, which has a double bedroom with recesses, wardrobe, clothes hooks, washbasin and bathroom with shower.

Recently it has been added to the complex, another double bedroom with recesses, wardrobe, its private shower bathroom and a little kitchen with a table sitting four people.

Outside areas: Every room has its private lovely terrace and all around the Trullo a green area with furniture carved in stone, shaded by thriving plants such as rosemary, caper and bay. Hidden among the olive branches is an outside shower. The highlight of the Trullo al Monte is by the way the outstanding beautiful terrace which houses an hydromassage tub for seven people, a relaxing area and a spectacular view running from the countryside down to the sea.
